Drug free

Education is key to helping youth make the right choice

BY TRACI BONNEY

First it was marijuana; then powder cocaine; then Ecstacy (methamphetamine); then LSD, "crack" and powder cocaine.

No, that isn't the personal drug list of a recovering abuser, though it could be. That is Glenn Strong's summary of how the local drug scene has changed in the five years he has worked in narcotics.

Strong, the director of the Hancock County Metropolitan Narcotics Task Force, said the types of drugs sold and the ages of the users have changed quite a bit in the past few years.

"Marijuana is not a major drug at present. It plays a back seat to cocaine. We've found that the powder cocaine is used. and sold mostly by whites, while crack cocaine is used and sold by blacks."

He said the powder cocaine dealers for the most part are also the marijuana dealers.

Crack is a solid form of cocaine made by mixing the powder cocaine with baking soda. The resulting "rocks" are then smoked in pipes.

Strong said crack is both cheaper and more quickly

Dockside gambling hopeful files BMR dredging application

BY TRACI BONNEY

Mardi Gras Casino Corp. has initiated the next step in its plan to open a dockside gambling operation next to the Hwy. 90 Bay bridge.

The company has filed an application with the Bureau of Marine Resources to build a 1.350-foot pier and dredge a 1,875-foot channel in the bay.

Mardi Gras plans to open its operation with three boats two for casinos and one for a floating restaurant — and a 300-room hotel on property formerly owned by jazz clarinetist Pete Fountain. Company president Marlin Torguson said construction will not begin until the city has acted on zoning recommendations to accomodate dockside gambling.

Torguson also has said the company could begin operations in spring of 1992.

People who wish to comment on or object to the Mardi Gras application have until 1 p.m. October 30 to do so. According to a BMR official, a public hearing will probably be held after that date, as is customary with large straight on his head, and I followed, impacting right on mine. 'I had asked later, 'How far did I slide?' I was told, 'You didn't slide at all.' By not rolling, I absorbed it all." He described in medical detail how the C5 vertebra in his neck was crushed, causing a chain reaction through the C2 C3, C4, C6, C7 and T1 about that." The morning following surgery, he said, the doctors were encouraged because he could slightly move his big toe on his left foot and the index finger of his right hand

That morning they started the physical therapy.

Eleven days after the accident, Colson was moved from Mercy Hospital in New Orleans to a rehabilitation facility in Birmingham, Ala., where he remained for five months.

Bay-Waveland school board votes to keep worker's comp insurance

BY TRACI BONNEY

The Bay St. Louis-Waveland school board took a stand for the school district's employees Monday night.

The board unanimously chose, after some discussion, to keep the district's workman's compensation insurance policy intact for another year, even though cancelling it would have meant a possible $40,000 savings in a budget hit hard by recent state cutbacks.

Board trustee Charles Benvenutti emphasized his belief that the district should keep the policy.

"I wouldn't ask an employee to work for me if I didn't have workman's compensation at my office. Even though the district is not liable if something should happen to an employee, I think we need to keep the insurance. The is important to the employhe stated.

voted accordingly. Later in the meeting, the board voted 4-1 to hire Michelle Petrie as a third grade teacher assistant at Waveland Elementary School to replace Belinda Jackson, whose resignation the board had just approved unanimously.

Food Pantry reaches crisis point

BY ELLIS CUEVAS

The Hancock County Food Pantry, in operation for over five years, is approaching a crisis point, it was revealed at an executive committee meeting Wednesday.

President Mrs. Ina Piazza said, "We have never really worried about being able to stay open. But, the number of families (assisted) monthly has doubled in 1991."

"This is in addition to our referral system being more stringent than ever before. All recipients are required to have a referral slip from the welfare department, health department, a doctor, or the minister of the month," Mrs. Piazza

A system is now in effect where one minister serves on a rotating basis for a monthly term, eliminating duplication.

The number of families served by the Food Pantry in five years has been 5,039, for a total of 16,122 people.

The annual March of Dimes WalkAmerica will be held Saturday in Hancock County.

Volunteers will gather at the Bay Bridge starting at 8 a.m. for the March of Dimes fund raiser to begin at 9

Betsy Ashman and others have been collecting pledges from residents for the walk from the bridge to Buccaneer State Park in Waveland.

Rest stops are to be located along the route, and soft drinks and water will be furnished.

Transportation will be provided for those who cannot complete the walk to the park, and a bus will return walkers to their vehicles.

As the walk is complete, the Bay-Waveland Jaycees will serve lunch.

Prizes are to be awarded to the adults raising the highest and second highest amounts of money and to students who raise the highest, second and third highest amounts.

There will be a WalkAmerica t-shirt for each walker who turns in $50, and a t-shirt and sports cooler for each walker who turns in $75.

The March of Dimes is a very good program, doing very good things for our youngsters.

I am hoping there will be a large number of persons walking Saturday and those contacted will donate generously.

The Hancock Hawks will host the Bay High Tigers Friday night in Hancock Stadium in high school football action.

This should be a very interesting game between the Hawks, who are rated as a 4-A team and the Tigers in Class 3-A.

I am sure that head coaches Irvin Favre and Rocky Gaudin will have their respective squads ready for action Friday night.

Of the 435 Representatives in the U.S. House of Representatives, 412 publicly say the boat user fee should be repealed. With that type of backing, you would think the fee would have failed long ago.

But if you will remember back about a year ago, Congress was anxious to pass legislation to keep the nation running. The 1,000-page Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act which encompasses the boat user fee made it through Congress at the 11th hour.

A popular rhyme floating adamantly opposed to the tax even though enforcement has begun. I'm all for reducing the federal deficit, but the user fee is unjustified.

If this practice is allowed to continue by the Administration, will we soon be charged to user fee on the cars and trucks we drive to work each day? I certainly hope not!

In the meantime, I am pressing the case for repeal of this unfair tax, but until then, boat owners like you and I must hand over the cash.

By Senator Thad Cochran

Cochran announces new wildlife refuge areas

The Migratory Bird Conservation Commission has approved additions to three wildlife refuges in Mississippi, U.S. Senator Thad Cochran

Cochran, a member of the commission, said approval was given for both the purchase and lease of additional acres within the approved boundaries of the refuges at a Washington meeting.

"The additional acreage will improve protection for Mississippi's wildlife resources and migratory birds," Cochran said following the meeting.

The commission approved the purchase of 660 acres for the Morgan Brake National Wildlife Refuge in Holmes County and 469 acres in the Yazoo National Wildlife Refuge.

"These acquisitions will provide important habitat for wintering waterfowl and other migratory birds," said Cochran.

Approval was also given for a 15-year lease of 640 acres in the Panther Swamp National Wildlife Refuge in Yazoo County.

The Migratory Bird Commission, created in 1934, approves the acquisition of migratory bird habitats recommended by the Secretary of Interior. Commission membership includes two members of Congress, two United States senators, and administrators of the U.S. Forest Service, the Environmental Protection Agency and the Department of Interior.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Make sure to vote; and choose our elected officials carefully

I would like to urge our registered voters to vote in the November 5 election to choose someone to represent us who has our future in view.

Let's become interested in this political arena. We need someone to speak for all people, not just a chosen few; to address the issues of education, economics and accountability. Someone who will look out for the elderly and our children, who are the leaders of tomorrow.

Too much bureaucracy is involved in our programs for the needy, rather than needed services. We should look at our future in the direction of survival. We need to listen to what the candidates are saying, and what they mean by their words.

Do we need a possible gaso-line tax hike of 18 cents per gallon? Who will that affect? Poor folks. Do we need more taxes to better serve our people? Why shouldn't we use what we have?

Most of our money goes to bureaucracy. We don't need a lot of rhetoric. Give us the real Remember, when you go to the polls, take a hard look at what we need and the results we are now getting. We best watch, as well as pray.

We should take what we have, and use it wisely: Don't stay home. Study the candidates and the issues, and come out and vote.

Sincerely. Geraldine Lang Bay St. Louis

EYES ON MISSISSIPPI

Fordice's campaign run by home-grown staffers

The day after Kirk Fordice, the ruddy 57-year-old Vicksburg construction executive, soundly whipped State Auditor Pete Johnson for the Republican gubernatorial nomination, White House staffers eagerly awaited a call inviting President Bush down to campaign for Fordice before the Nov. 5 general election.

It never came.

"What's going on down there, doesn't your man want the President to come down and stump for him?" the Bush people started asking Mississippi GOP leaders. The answer came back; while Kirk liked George Bush a lot, he'd rather not have him fly down to Mississippi on the big bird. With all the accompanying hoopla, it could disrupt the Fordice campaign from its planned course. In other words, thanks, but no thanks.

From a strictly practical standpoint, Fordice figured a Bush visit would cost campaign dollars (the candidate has to pick up the tab for the presidential trip) and the planning and execution of the presidential visit would take valuable time away fromcampaigning with only three weeks left.

However, one fundamental reason why the Fordice camp chose not to bring in the president, despite his popularity in Mississippi, was believed to be the realization that Mississippians are notoriously unimpressed with endorsements. (Remember Bush stumped to no avail last year for congressional candidate Tom Anderson against Cong. Gene Taylor.)

complete unknown in March to now be an unquestionalby formidable threat to unseat an incumbent governor is in itself a remarkable political story in what may be a watershed political year for throwing the "ins"

Fordice won his way through the GOP nominating primaries with what could be called a home-grown campaign organization which included only a handful of paid workers, and no national media consultants.

His campaign consultant is Joe Loyocano, 51, who though a native of Greenville, has been a much-travelled political journeyman over the last 20 years, handling campaigns in the rough and tumble politics of Maryland and Virginia.

Loyocano, who moved back to Mississippi three years ago, reminds one in appearance and style of the balding, fast-talking Sergeant Bilko played by Phil Silvers on TV in the '60s. Pitted against the high-powered campaign machinery of Gov. Ray Mabus which includes some of the biggest national names in the business, Loyocano will operate with a total staff of only eight other workers, including three field people.

Fordice's polling is being done by another Mississippian-Jackson-based pollster Verne Kennedy—who has enhanced his reputation nationally in the Republican Party by evidently being closer on target in the primary campaigns than any other pollsters.

The Mason-Dixon polls commissioned by a group of newspapers and television stations had consistently underestimated Fordice's strength against Johnson until a few days before the Oct. 8 runoff, and had shown the Vicksburg contractor being easily blown out by Mabus in a matchup between the two in November.

There is hardly a political observer in the state who would suggest now that the mabus camp can place any validity in the earlier polling figures on a Mabus-Fordice face-off. Certainly you can place no stock in the fact that Mabus received 368,000 votes in winning the Sept. 17 Democratic primary while Fordice won his party's nomination with only 31,200

Four years ago, Jack Reed won the GOP gubernational nomination with only 14,000 votes, but in the general election against Mabus, Reed's vote total escalated to 336,000. Mabus' general election vote in 1987, incidentally, dropped by 90,000 from his 1987 Democratic runoff win over Mike Sturdivant.

Mabus clearly had tremendous momentum behind him four years ago after his smashing victory over Sturdivant and he barely beat Reed. This time, the momentum going into the general election is behind Fordice, who has enjoyed better than $1 million worth of free exposure the past three weeks as the spotlight of state politics has focused on the GOP runoff.

Certainly Fordice is no Bushleaguer now.

Five years ago, the majority of cocaine users (powder; crack hadn't come to this area yet) were in the 24-35 age group, he stated. Now, most cocaine users (including crack) are in the 15-35 age group.

Sausage has been a popular food ever since the days of the ancient Greeks and Romans; in the days of Julius Caesar, sausages had become so much a part of riotous festivals that they were barred in the Christian era, and consequently were "bootlegged" so to speak!

Eventually, the ban was lifted, so people could once more delight in the varied and tangy sausages without running afoul of the law. More and more varieties came into vogue in the Middle Ages, smoked, cooked or dried according to the area and its climate.

It was the American Indians who introduced sausage into our country, with a primitive sort of sausage cake from dried beef and berries; and subseinflux of colonists onto Ameriits specialties and favorites, and its own way of cooking and serving them. One of my favorites is the famed Choucroute Garni of French cookery, which combines the sausages with sauerkraut in a robust and easily-made dish. Here's:

CHOUCROUTE GARNI 1 lb. or a little more, of sausage links of your choice 1 lb. frankfurters

4 onions, chopped 2 cups carrots, diced 1 large apple, diced

1 bay leaf Pepper and salt to taste 1/2 tsp. minced garlic (less, if you're not a garlic lover)

1 bouillon cube (beef or chicken) 1 cup water

8 cups (2 cans) well-drained sauerkraut 1/2 cup white wine 1 Tblsp. brown sugar

Prick the sausages lightly with the tines of a fork, and brown well in a heavy skillet over moderate heat. Drain on paper towels. Pour off fat from skillet, leaving only approximately 2 tablespoons of fat in the skillet. To this, add the onions, carrots, apple, bay leaf, pepper and salt (optional) and the garlic. Add the bouillon cube dissolved in the cup of water. (I usually use a cup of broth or stock instead.) Simmer for 20 to 30 minutes with the skillet or pot covered, then stir in the sauerkraut. along with the wine and the tablespoon of brown sugar. Layer the sauerkraut and cooked sausages, along with the franks, ending with layer of sausages and franks, and bake, covered, for an your, perhaps a little less, as needed. (6 to 8 servings)

P.S. As always, discard bay leaf after cooling. (Copyright, 1991, Katharine

"You wouldn't believe it, but he stretching means a lot. You have to stretch the muscles before you can build them up." Colson is a 1973 graduate of Hancock North Central High School. He attended The University of Mississippi, first in the pharmacy program and later in marketing. He completed three years of college while working odd jobs, like door-to-door vacuum cleaner sales, to help defray the cost of his education. land when his grandfather became ill and passed away. "I intended to get a job to help out and return to school later." He took a job at Dupont in Harrison County and school took a back seat. The later stretched into several years. During this time Colson

He returned home to Wave-began riding horses part-time. I use to ride out in the Rocky Hill and Kiln communities from the time I was 13 to 18 years of age. When I was a senior in high school I was offered a chance to ride in Tampa, Fla., but that meant I would have to quit school, so I turned it down."

While working at Dupont, Colson said the money from riding began to supersede that which he was earning at Dupont, so he quit the job there and entered the riding circuit.

"The only thing I regret is my grandfather died before he could see me ride professionally. He was a great influence in my life.'

Colson has been back from the Birmingham facility for two months. He presently spends his days working out. This is a seven-day-a-week job," he commented. "I come here (Loiacano's Health Club) six days a week. I spend three mornings a week at the Sun Coast Rehabilitation Center in Gulfport. I do mat and hand exercises every day at home.

"I guess I spend a total of a good six hours a day working out. Even on Sundays, I do range of motion exercises. There isn't a day when you can sit and do nothing.'

Colson said the biggest problem for him has been having to depend on his family for help. "I'm not rich, so when the insurance ran out I returned to my family. I'm the luckiest person in the world to have them, but it has been hard on them.

"My progress depends on my being able to maintain consistency in the therapy. I need someone to help me stretch when I'm home and I need someone to help set me up and stand by me as I go through the various machines, in case my body gives out.

"If I fall, I could injure myself all over again.

"For the past two weeks I have been able to come to Loiacano's every day. They told me at the rehab center that I have progressed more in the past two weeks than I have in all these months.

"My brother, Brian (Colson), has been able to help me every day, but he has things he has to do, too. He has children he is caring for on his own."

Colson explained, since the state had picked up the cost for the rehab center, he is expected to show improvement or he will be dropped from the program.

The only way to show improvement is to have a routine, keep to it and keep pushing further. It's like torture, but when I see the seconds increase in the time I can stand on my own, I know it is working."

"You mind is thinking, do it, but your body isn't listening. "This is not psychosomatic. It's a matter of building my strength one day at a time. "The more I move, the more I get feelings back.

I have been told that my spinal cord is still swollen and when it finally returns to normal, whatever movement is still affected will be lost. But I have also been told, movement loss: can be compensated for through strength building.

"I remember when I first moved my left foot off the mat, and then it took weeks before I could move the other foot. Now that I can push weights, it's unbelievable. Although to myself, it's never fast enough."

Colson said he has been told that it takes two years for full recovery from an injury of this magnitude. "I have a little over a year to go."

Will Colson ever ride professionally again? He does not kňow.

"My therapist says I will be able to, but I don't know if I would ever want to take that chance again, even though it was a freak accident.

You know there are about 1,000 jockeys riding in the United States, and every year 13 to 18 a year suffer a serious injury or death. The chance of iniury in a car is probably higher than that of riding a horse. Look at that football player at Ole Miss who broke his neck and later died. Anything can be dangerous."

As Colson moved from weight machine to weight machine at the club with the assistance of a walker and his brother's grip securely upon a four-inch weight belt, he reported, "They told me, in a few weeks I won't have to use my wheelchair anymore.

Camaraderie, competition found each Tuesday in Pass Christian Isles

BY JACQUI COCHRAN

Every Tuesday afternoon the Pass Christian Isles (PCI) Golf Club lounge is filled with the sounds of laughter and good sportsmanship.

It is here that the women of the Pass Christian Isles Ladies' Golf Club meet for lunch and verbal replay of the morning's competition. If you ask why the women are there, the majority will reply, "To get out of the house."

Pat Randall explained, "At first, it might be to escape the house, but after a while it becomes an addiction.

The women added, "the sense of competition grabs hold of you. It is a game against yourself.

"One day you shoot terribly and then the next you do great. Well, that terrible game is all forgotten."

According to the women, more then just a bad game is forgotten on the golf course.

"Everything is forgotten," Shirley Heyd commented. "You might be feeling in the dumps and once you are outside on those greens, concentrating on your game and enjoying the day, you feel better about everything." Connie April called golf "the great escape, Sunshine, fresh air and friends."

Over and over the women expressed the ability of golf to release one of cares. "It is therapy for the mind," said Georgia

Tigers, Hawks vie at Hancock

BY RANDY PONDER The Bay High Tigers will face their toughest test of the year Friday night when they visit the Hancock Hawks. "Hancock has one of the top programs on the Coast," Tiger coach Rocky Gaudin stated. They are led by a group of very experienced and talented seniors. Halfback Terrence Goff and linebacker Bobby Doyle are the best on the Coast at their positions."

Bay High improved their record to 3-3 with a solid viccleave last week. The 18-8 win was the Tigers' second in a row and third out of their last four. In the all-important Division 8 Class 3-A race, Bay High is Defensively, the Tigers were all over Vancleave. The Bulldogs' only score was the result of a turnover. They were held to 40 yards rushing and 73 yards passing. Gaudin praised L.C. Curry,

Dwayne Antoine, Jeff Hopgood, Jamie Kingston, Brenan Compretta, Kris Barlow, Gertory over the Bulldogs in Van-rit Carver, Chris Roberts

Miquel Smith, Mark Murray and Jimmy Strong for their defensive efforts.

Curry was named defensive player of the week. He had two pass interceptions, recovered fumble and made five

The offense moved the ball with authority all night against the Bulldogs, amassing 225 yards on the ground, They executed well, coming off the ball quickly. Several long, time consuming drives kept the Vancleave offense off the field most of the evening.

Stanislaus in conference tilt against d'Iberville Warriors

BY ELLIS CUEVAS

The St. Stanislaus Rock-A-Chaws will be seeking victory number six of the season in high school football, when they journey to play the d'Iberville Warriors.

Stanislaus is 5-1 for the season, while d'Iberville sports a 4-2 record.

Both teams are conference members of Division 8 Class 4-A. with Stanislaus 2-1 in conference and d'Iberville 1-1.

The Rocks looked impressive in their victory over Long Beach last week, and so did d'Iberville, who defeated East Central.

Rock head mentor Ken Lyons, planning for Friday night's game said, "We are anticipating a very physical battle, as d'Iberville is a little larger in the line and about the same size in skilled players.

Skilled players are designated as defensive backs and offensive backs, according to run from the option and depend upon their passing offense. There has been an increase in the number of passes by the Warriors in recent weeks, and they definitely try to take away a team's favorite plays on defense," Lyons added.

This will be a conference must for both teams, as it will be hard for a team with two losses to end up in the play-offs, Lyons indicated.

The conference is probably the best balanced in the state. Lyons said, and "It takes heads up play each week.' Stanislaus should physically be o.k. for d'Iberville's game with several players sustaining bruises from previous games. Lyons said his team has been working out a few new 'wrinkles' for the game Friday. Stanislaus has had good fan support thus far this season, and Lyons is hoping to see a lot. of Rock-A-Chaw supporters at d'Iberville. Kickoff is scheduled for 7:30.

Hawks psyched up for the Tigers

BY JACQUI COCHRAN Hancock High School is hosting the Bay High Tigers Friday, and spirits are high.

Everybody wants to beat the other team for bragging rights," Coach Irvin Favre explained. "Playing Bay St. Louis is a typical county rivalry. We go through the same thing when we play St. Stanislaus.

"Bay St. Louis has been playing good football this year. They are 3-3, just as we are 3-3.

"They have an advantage by being a big, large in size, very large team; and no matter what anybody thinks, those big people can give you trouble. They are hard to move.

"But, we have our spots. "We have had a really good practice this week. "We are a little banged up from last week's game, but I anticipate we will be ready.

Quarterback Jeff Favre played the majority of last week's game against Pearl River Central. He was injured several weeks ago and suffered a separated shoulder.

Favre said he may start with Favre as quarterback this week. "The doctor said he can pretty much play a full game Coach Favre stated there were no real injuries keeping anyone out of play, but there were several lingering ones which he intended to keep a watchful eye upon.

He added Bay St. Louis has consistently played a good defensive game. "And offensively, they are a power team, running behind the linemen.
"One of the big things that is going to come into play will be

BY TRACI BONNEY

The B team, 9th grade and 7th/8th grade Tigers all defeated their opponents last week in games against Poplarville, Vancleave and St. John.

The B team overwhelmed Poplarville 29-14 October 7 with Gerrit Carver leading the offense. Fullbacks were Brenan Compretta and Benny Murphy, while tailbacks included Larrone Lewis and L.C. Curry.

Coach Rocky Gaudin commented that the match was "a high scoring game in which both teams had little success in stopping the other team's offense consistently.

The 9th graders shut out. Vancleave 26-0 October 10. Gaudin said the game was "another outstanding performance by the entire 15-player

PCI ladies

There are 75 active members, and on Tuesdays the group averages 40 to 50 players.

.. Two members belong to national golf associations. Iva Mae McDonald is a past president of Trans National Women's Golf Association, and Marion Lichty is a member of the Women's Western Golf Association which dates back to nament is the largest event the club hosts. The most loved tournament is the Husband and Wife Tournament, nick-named the Divorce Tournament. It will be played on the 22nd of this month.

The PCI Golf Club holds a tournament once a year which attracts players from all along the Coast. The PCI Golf Tour-

April described the teams of husbands and wives playing in alternate strokes. "The man hits the ball into the woods, the trees, any place but where the ball is supposed to be played, and the woman has to go and get it out of there. That's when he trouble starts.

The women all laughed in

It takes about four and a half hours for the women to complete their Tuesday rounds. Their ages range from mid-30's to well into the 80's.

Once a year a seniors tournament is held by the women. Anyone under sixty-five is a caddy. The caddies care for the seniors' every need throughout the tournament. Brushing aside pine needles at the hole to make sure nothing interferes with that needed stroke. After the tournament is completed they all head to the Pass Christian Yacht Club for lunch.

Ouida Parker named the socialization advantages of the game as another reason to be a golf-advocate.

"If you move into a community and you don't know anyone, join the local golf club and before you know it, you are surrounded by friends.

The club draws teams of players so that everyone plays eventually with everyone. The com-. pany, conversation and competition is always different.

The top scoring ladies were handed gift certificates for their play Tuesday. They were very excited:

The nine-hole group winners were Mickey Christensen and Velma Guest. First place went to Pat Warman and Nancy Witt; second place to Char Hanson and Gloria Forstall; and third place to Shirley Heyd and Helen Farrell.

Everyone applauded as the names were announced; and jokes were good-heartedly passed between muffaletta

Maybe it was the clean fall air or the bright sunshine-filled day that gave each of the women a glow of youth and happiness.

Maybe it was all that exercise as they moved in and out of their golf carts, floating over the lush PCI greens in miniconvoys.

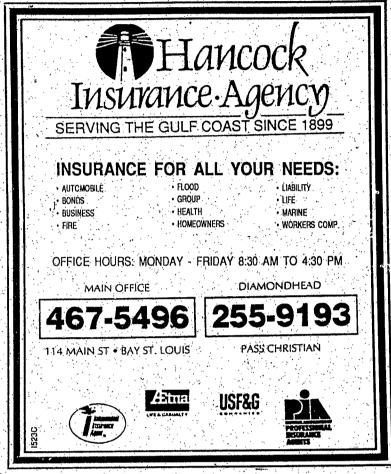

Whatever the reason, there existed a sense of camaraderie that permeated to the point of being infectious as the women warmly encouraged, "Come play golf with us.'

FISHIN' Y'ALL

By Jim Maness

Shrimping excursion yields bountiful catch

It's time to go fishin' y'all. The shrimp have been so spectacularly beautiful lately that I thought maybe I could con some unsuspecting shriming per into taking along some extra weight, in the form and person of this turtle, on a shrimping trip.

After searching long and hard, I finally found a likely prospect. The only stipulation was that I could not use the correct name of the boat, nor could I use the correct name of the captain of the boat.

You see, since the introduction of laws that a shrimper has to use TEDs, the average boat pulling a shrimp trawl avoids turtles like the spotted plague.

So with the stipulations in mind, I set sail on the good ship Captain YO YO, in the wild blue (actually it was a slightly muddy green) Gulf of Mexico in search of the mighty shrimp.

To tell that I was lost would be an understatement. I am sure that most of the time we were located in the area of water as the boat did not go aground.

Some locations looked suspiciously like Louisiana marsh so I assume we were not in Cuba.

Anyway, Captain Hook, captain of the good shrimp ship Captain YO YO, kept using this small net behind the boat that he said was a "test trawl." Each time we would bring up the small ret he would mumble some incoherent words, so I guess the name of the small net

Eventually Captain Hook stopped mumbling when he brought up the little net and started to give orders to his deckhands which made all sorts of things happen. All at once the two arms holding the big nets started to go toward the water and when they were horizontal to the water the big nets went overboard and the serious trawling started.

The boat went in a large circle for about an hour until Captain Hook gave the order to pick up the nets.

Amid much clanking and groaning, the heavily laden nets gradually came to the bo ... Then up came the "ball" or tail of the net laden with shrimp and small fish. The contents of the net were emptied into this big tank of salt water that Captain Hook called a brine tank. This is a really neat process.

All of the little fish come to the top of the tank and are scooped up in a net and thrown overboard where I saw them swim away. This seems to be a much better conservation practice then dumping all of the catch, shrimp and fish alike, into a dry box where most of the fish that finally go back into the water are dead or dying and are totally wasted.

Meanwhile, back at the farm, after the small fish were thrown back to live, all that was left in the brine tank were these wonderful, beautiful, shrimp that were about 15 to a pound.

After much pleading and begging, Captain Hook finally agreed to let me have a few pounds of these beauties when we got back to the dock,

As I was leaving the good ship Captain YO YO, I could tell by the look in Captain Hook's eyes that he was sure that turtles and shrimp boats don't belong together. Now shrimp that are big and beautiful, plus fresh caught, should be put to good use immediately, if not sooner, so here is the way I cooked the shrimp: · I took an 10" by 17" baking pan and laid two pounds of shrimp, heads on, side by side in a single layer in the pan.

Next, I cut up two sticks of Fleichmann's margarine and distributed the pats on the top of the shrimp until I used them

Then I sprinkled about onefourth teaspoon each of paprika, onion salt and garlic salt over the shrimp. The final step was to take a pepper mill and turn the layer of shrimp black.

You cannot use too much pepper, as you will peel the shrimp when you eat them.

This whole concoction goes into a pre-heated 350° oven for about 20 minutes, slightly longer for really big shrimp, and slightly less for smaller shrimp. The final, and for some, the most important ingredient for these so-called Bar-B-Q shrimp is some French bread to dip into the juice after you eat the shrimp.

This week's wonderful wise words. There is no substitute for good scientific research. Go eat your Bar-B-Q shrimp, turtle.. fast.
